I came here this morning to sign an order putting Neely in custody under an act passed by congress on June 6 last, provided the government made a disposition of the two suits under which orders of arrest still stand against him. I find, however, that the exceptional zeal of the prisoner scounsel has produced a most peculiar situation, a complication that so far as I know has never before existed in connection with extradition cases.

has never before existed in connection with extradition cases.

Judge Wallace of this court has been applied to for a writ of habeas corpus on the ground, among others, that the act of June 6 is unconstitutional. The writ of habeas corpus was asked in order to test the constitutionality of the act and to restore to liberty a prisoner alleged to be held under it. But the act of June 6 does not apply here. No one is restrained of his liberty under that act. I never issued an order authorizing his holding under the act of June 6. Now the proceedings asking for a writ of habeas corpus has been refused, an appeal taken and an order issued by Judge Wallace remanding the prisoner. I do not know upon what information Judge Wallace acted. Nor can I see what else can happen to the appeal when it reaches the United States supreme court, except that they will dismiss it as being brought upon insufficient grounds. Habeas corpus cannot be availed of under the act until some proceedings are held under the act. And I have been careful all along to allow the order of arcest in the civil suit to stand and not to attempt to put him under the provisions of the new act.

Judge Lacombe then advised Marshal Henkel to keep the prisoner in custody under the civil order or under Judge Wallace's order, as he chose, and to advise with the district attorney about that.

The government was given until next Monday to decide what further action it will take in the matter.

SURPRISE FOR DEMOCRATS

One of Their Party in Philippines Points Out Advantages in Retaining Islands. SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Aug. 13 .- (Special.)-

No recent letter from a South Dakota soldier in the Philippines has created so much discussion in state political circles and attracted so much interest as a letter received a few days ago from Harry Bramble, formerly of Watertown, S. D., who is now serv ing as a sergeant of Company H. Forty-second United States volunteers, in the Philippines. Young Bramble, like his honored father, Hon. D. T. Bramble, has been a life long democrat. His father was in early days one of the leading democrats of the territory of Dakota, residing at Yankton, and afterwards receiver of the United States land office at Watertown. The letter is a reply to one sent to young Bramble by his brother, the present county auditor of Codington county, who wished a statement written from a democrat standpoint, with reference to what benefit the islands would be to the United States if retained. After describing the richness of the islands and alluding to their varied products young Bramble says:

"If you were here now sitting where am, seeing the rain falling in torrents and know that it keeps up for four months steady, you would say 'Well, I don't know what they want of the Philippines in Washington,' but this would be only a selfish hought because you were uncomfortably located yourself. I think if I should be ip after all the hard work that the solliers have done to keep them I would vote

This declaration on the part of an earnest lemocrat is proving a bombshell in the camp of Senator Pettigrew, who is conducting the campaign for re-election to the United States senate chiefly upon his open espousal of the cause of the Filipino insurgents as against the American soldiers. and his public declaration to the effect that "it is the duty of the United States to immediately withdraw from the Philippines and apologize to the world for the mistake

It is the highest point on the Pei river, where the river water is depended on, as the native wells are the source of supply on the balance of the route to Pekin. As it has taken five days for General Chaffee to report the advance to Ho-Si-Wu it is evident that wire communication is not open to the front. This was hardly to be expected and the safe arrival of the message at least shows that a certain measure of communication is open. One of the chief sources of congratulation among officials is that the fancied hordes of China have not matertalized, or at least have not prevented the international column from drawing close to the gates of Pekin.

Shortly after this dispatch arrived another message from General Chaffee, far more lengthy, gave the melancholy result of the fighting at Yang Tsun. The casualty list was given in detail, with the additional information that the dead had been buried at Yang Tsun, while the wounded had been sent back to the hospital at Tien Tsin.

Reply to Peace Proposals.

The reply of the United States government to China's overtures for peace was made public early in the day, showing the firm and final position that had been taken. While expressing satisfaction at this spe cific step the reply states that it is eviplaces which have been frequently referred dent that "there can be no general negoto in the evidence were pointed out by the tlation between China and the powers" so long as the ministers and legationers are restrained and in danger. Powers Back of United States.

Powers Back of United States. It developed during the day that the reference to "the powers" employed in the American reply was not without a distinct meaning. Exchanges between the stantly and as a result the officials had the satisfaction of knowing late in the day that the action of the United States had the approval and support of all the powers. While this had not been expressed in any formal manner by all the parties, yet the exchanges in the chancellories of Europe and through the foreign representatives in Washington had made it positive that the powers were acting unitedly in approval of the United States. Several of the foreign representatives, including Baron von Sternberg, the German charge d'affairs, and Mr. De Wollant, the Russian charge d'affaires, had extended conferences with Mr. Adee during the afternoon. These added to the assurances of unanimity among the powers... The presence of the Russian representative was gratifying in clearing away some misapprehension which was not shared by the government here as to Russia's course in authorizing M. de Giers to leave Pekin under Chinese escort. It was pointed out that this in no way brought about a difference between the attitude of Russia and that of the other powers, as all were acting on the theory that the Chinese government must give an absolute guaranty for the safety of the ministers. It seems that this absolute guaranty cannot be given by China unless it allows the international forces to enter Pekin, so that in effect the Russian position does not differ materially from that of the other powers. At least Russia is included among those who fully approve the course taken by the United States.
